COLLEGE TO TEACH HEALING WITHOUT USE OF DRUGS

Takes Over Sanitas Baths But Later Will Secure Permanent Home

CHARTER COVERS A LARGE SCOPE

Already There Have Been About Seventy-Five Enrolled

The California College of Electro Mechano Therapy has been organized in Long Beach, and a deal has just been closed whereby it takes over the Sanitas Baths on East Second street. This deal was made by Miss Ida M. Greeg, through Prof. R. W. Reading, for the baths, the full equipment and its business.

The college was incorporated on October 6 in Long Beach and will have for its general purposes the practice of drugless healing.

The Officers and Board of Directors consist of the following: Prof. R. W. Reading, President; Dr. Elmer F. Gray, Vice President; Miss Ida M. Gregg, Treasurer; Mrs. Ellen D. Cain, Secretary; Dr. C. D. Greenall, Dr. Judson T. Lovell, Dr. C. Travis Winsor, Directors.

The faculty consists of the following: Dr. Thomas Powell, Dr. B. W. Child, Pasadena; Dr. C. D. Greenall, Dr. August Greth, Dr. H. S. Tanner, Los Angeles.

The object of the college is to teach practically everything that is embraced in the drugless healing. It is proposed to charge $500 for three-year general course. There will be nothing to do with medicine in any way.

The headquarters for the college will be in Long Beach, temporarily at the Sanitas Baths. There have already been enrolled seventy-five students. The college has a charter giving it as broad authority as the most complete schools in the country. It is planned to at a later date secure some suitable building for a permanent home, or possibly have one erected. Professor Reading said this morning that the church building occupied formerly for the Plymouth Congregational Church would be an idea place for the school.

The emblem for the college is the "Goodness of Liberty," with a background of the Long Beach Pier and the ocean.

A scholarship will be given to each of the churches to be given to some worthy young man or woman who wishes to take up the work, and one to each of the papers to be given to any person they may recommend.

WATCH LONG BEACH IN ITS BIG DEVELOPMENT OF THE FUTURE

Has Faith in the Future Greatness of Beach City

Another man who has unbounded faith in Long Beach and who believes it is destined within the next few years to become a large city, is Professor R. W. Reading.

"For the practice of my profession and for the location of such an institution as I have established, it is an ideal place," said he. "The climate is conducive to good health and it is an important factor in the treatment of all patients, no matter what may be the affliction, for the almost perpetual sunshine, the balmy air and the beautiful environments tend to positive drooping spirits and to instil new hope and courage into the suffering."

Faith in Future Greatness of City

An institution that promises to add materially to the fame and prosperity of Long Beach is the new California College of Electro-Mechano Therapy, of which Dr. Reading is founder and president.

Four years ago, after having studied and practiced his profession for a long while in this and other countries, he located in Long Beach and opened unpretentious quarters. For some time he was retained in a professional capacity at the famous Arrowhead Hot Springs, but the superior climate of Long Beach convinced him that this was the ideal place for such an institution as he hoped to some day establish. Another feature that figured in the consideration was the discovery here of a mud composition which contains valuable curative properties.

By hard work and successful treatment he gradually built up a practice that enabled him to equip commodious quarters with all the latest and most valuable inventions used in drugless healing and bloodless surgery. Nor did he depend altogether upon the genius and knowledge of others in providing himself with equipments essential to the most effective practice of his profession. For instance, he has an electric cabinet of his own invention for which a patent is now pending, and for which patent he has refused $15,000. It is a marvelous contrivance, and as a layman the only way we can describe it is that the air within is charged with electricity. The patient goes in it and the whole body is charged with the mysterious element to any degree the operator may wish. By simply thrusting your hand into the cabinet, and, without touching anything, you can feel the electricity. Miles of wiring is used in the construction of the invention. A great machine for creating vapors for nasal, throat and lung troubles; an X-ray machine, used for applying electric currents to patients as well as for locating the seats of ailments and fractures, and cabinets of every description are scattered throughout the apartments; there are mud baths and, we should judge, every other kind of bath known to both science and the layity. A visit to the college is well worth the time of anybody, and visitors are courteously shown through all the apartments and the various methods of treatment explained.

The establishment has heretofore been known as the Sanitas Baths, but the long-cherished hopes of Dr. Reading have been at least partially realized, for on Oct. 14, 1910, the California College of Electro-Mechano Therapy was incorporated under the laws of this state.

The faculty consists of R. W. Reading, professor of Electro-Mechano Theraphy, president; Brainerd Winslow Childs, professor and teacher of Hygiene; H. Hillman, formerly professor of Oxford University, England; August Trith, M. D., professor of Anatomy.

Dr. Reading has the distinction of being the first person in the west to have the degree of doctor and professor of Electro-Mechano Therapy conferred upon him.

Recently at the Plymouth Congregational church, in this city, degrees were conferred upon the following-named graduates who studied under Dr. Reading, this list not including the faculty, whose names are given above: Ida May Gregg, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; Ellen D. Cain, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; Elmer Frank Gray, Doctor of Chirotherapy; Mrs. Emma Josephine Gray, Doctor of Chirotherapy; Doctor Charles D. Greenall, Professor and Doctor of Chirotherapy; Judson T. Lovell, Doctor of Chirotherapy; J. N. Jones, Doctor of Chirotherapy; W. G. Hess, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; A. R. Mather, Doctor of Chirotherapy; F. M. Sanford, Doctor of Chirotherapy; Myrtle Rowland, Doctor of Chirotherapy; Simeon A. Young, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; Carl H. Von Breton, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; S. A. Luyer, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; J. H. Weber, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; Virginia Weber, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; J. Stratford Davies, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy; Virginia Whoece, Doctor of Chirotherapy; M. H. Wesner, Doctor of Chirotherapy; Alvine Stone, Doctor of Chirotherapy; J. Howenstine, Doctor of Electro-Mechano Therapy.

The famous Doctor Tanner is an honorary member of the college faculty.

Professor Reading attributes much of his success to the valuable assistance rendered him by Ida M. Gregg, secretary of the college, and Mrs. Ellen D. Cain, both of whom are now professional practitioners.

The regular bathing facilities of the establishment are offered to the public the same as heretofore, the ordinary business in no way being interfered with by the enlargement of the scope of operations.

A full course covering all the branches of the science requires from three to four years, while a course in chirotherapy alone consumes usually from twelve to fourteen months.

A large number of new pupils are enlisted and the new college will bring both patients and students here from other sections.

Clinics are held and the poor are treated free. These patients receive as careful and scientific attention as though they were paying for the treatment.

No doubt the college will become a very important institution in the community and that in time new quarters will be provided and a hospital established in connection with the college.

Long Beach wishes the institution success, as it does all enterprises that make for the health, happiness and prosperity of the city.

Solves A Deep Mystery.

Resources, Faith and Spirit Have Made Long Beach in Ten Years

The Year is Continuous Season of Delight Here

"It is with an effort that one can remember what season of the year it is in Long Beach," says Dr. C. D. Greenall. "It is always pleasant and delightful here.

"While there are clear days and a small part of the year delightful weather back east here it is pleasant all the year round with the exception of a few rainy days in the winter or early spring. There are no great extremes of heat and cold, from which one suffers so much back east. Our climate is mild and equable.

"You can work in your garden both winter and summer and enjoy in the open the fresh pure air and the pleasure of roses, geraniums and many other flowers in blossom all the year.

"People who enjoy snow and wish it can always find it in the mountains. Most any kind of climate desired may be found in Southern California within a few hours travel."

Dr. Greenall came to Long Beach in 1889. Afterward he went to Colorado, New York and other states, then to Canada and to England, but always gravitated toward California and he thinks there is no place like this to live in.

"The conditions that bring vast crowds here summer and winter necessarily mean we have attractions of climate and scenery of a high order," says the doctor. "When you compare sunny Southern California with other states, with their snow, cold and storms it is not difficult to understand the attractiveness of this section.

"Out of one hundred people I know of that have come out here from England only one went back again to stay."

Press-Telegram (Long Beach), 26 April 1913

The following is one of many letters we have from grateful patients:

1628 1-2 Flower Street, Los Angeles, California.

OXFORD DENTAL CO., LONG BEACH, CAL.:

Gentlemen—After giving my plate a thorough trial I feel that I must tell you that it is giving me the utmost satisfaction. I am the proud possessor of four upper sets of teeth, which fact has taught me that it is hard to get a plate to fit. However, the plate you made me fits, and is useful in every respect. Also, I presume, on account of your new suction method—"it sticks like glue."

Yours truly,

LONG BEACH FRIENDS HEAR FROM DR. GREENALL IN GERMANY.

Many friends of Dr. C. D. Greenall, who left this city for Germany before the war will be intensely interested to know that Mr. F. M. Spencer, 430 Elm avenue has recently been in communication with him.

Dr. Greenall is of English birth, but managed to escape injury and is now in Hackenheim, Germany, in a very weakened condition from hardship and privation. He is on rations; one and one-half pounds of sugar a month and four pounds of rye bread a week. Some potatoes which he raised were taken over by the state.

A few provisions sent him by Mrs. Spencer reached him safely and were a great relief.

Dr. Greenall is making every effort to get passports to Liverpool and then back to California.
